

Threatened Tapajós: Indigenous Views on Planned Infrastructure Mega Projects

Film Screening and Panel Discussion

Tuesday November 30, 2021
4:00 p.m. (San Diego)

The region of the Tapajós River in the Brazilian Amazon is the site of several planned megaprojects, including railroads, dams, mining, and the expansion of agro-business. In this virtual event, we will screen the short documentary, “Threatened Tapajós” (directed by Thomaz Pedro, 2021) and hear from researchers, Vinícius da Silva Machado and Telma Monteiro, who contributed to a report produced by the Society for Threatened Peoples documenting the Indigenous response to the planned infrastructure projects that will impact their communities’ health and territory.

Join us on Zoom:
<https://SDSU.zoom.us/j/82433634077>

