

Utopia of Freedom in the Americas: Quilombo and Marronage as Forms of Social Organization in the Diaspora

A lecture by Dr. Davi Pereira Junior

Davi Pereira Junior, Ph.D. was born in the quilombola community of Itamatatua in the south of the Municipality of Alcântara - Maranhão, Northeast Brazil. He holds a BA in History from the State University of Maranhão UEMA, a Master's degree in Social Anthropology from the Federal University of Bahia UFBA, and a PhD in Latin American Studies from University of Texas at Austin. Pereira Junior has been a researcher for New Social Cartography in Brazil since 2005. He has extensive experience in researching and producing cartographies with Peoples and Traditional Communities in Brazil.

This lecture is hosted by Dr. Daniela Gomes's class, AFRAS 300: Afro-Brazilian Community, Culture, and Identity.

September 30, 2021
11:00-12:15 PST

Join us via Zoom:

<https://SDSU.zoom.us/j/83658886691>

